

Acknowledgements

We would like to express our gratitude to those who have helped to make this book possible. Each of them played a valuable role and deserves our sincere appreciation.

First of all, we would like to thank Mirko Romagnoli and Flavia Veronesi, members of the working group of the research project “Develop Community Resources through the Valorisation of the Natural and Cultural Heritage”, for their commitment and dedication. Mirko and Flavia worked with us with passion and motivation during the various stages that led from the research project to the book.

Dritan Kapo, an architect in Tiranë, was of great help to us in the acquisition of thematic cartography of the area under study and its interpretation. Dritan also collaborated with Fabrizio Battisti, a dear and competent colleague from our Department of Architecture, in estimating the cost of the works envisaged in the preliminary design of the path from Kadiu Bridge to the village of Bënjë.

We would like to pay tribute to three people who have made a valuable contribution to the book:

- Pier Angelo Mori is the co-author of the final chapter of the book, and he discussed with us, with the generosity and competence that comes from years of study and research on social cooperation, some important issues related to the process of village regeneration from a socio-economic point of view.
- Ardian Ndreca wrote the beautiful preface to the book, expressing with passion and nostalgia his love for his land; we are truly grateful to him for the sensitivity and rigour with which he approached our work and for his generous words about our book.
- Eni Nurihana played a valuable role in the realisation of the manuscript: she co-authored a chapter, translated some texts from Albanian into Italian, and with care and professionalism prepared several drawings and diagrams included in the book.

It is a great pleasure for us to thank Stefania Vizzaccaro, Director of the Italian Agency for Development Cooperation in the Western Balkans in Tiranë, who believed in our work and supported it wholeheartedly. We would also like to thank her for her kind and generous foreword to this book.

Among her staff, a special mention goes to Francesco Guerzoni for the quality and continuity of his participation throughout the development of our work. Francesco never failed to support us in overcoming all the challenges we faced in the course of our work. We greatly appreciated his professionalism and kindness.

During the demanding on-site analysis of the research project, we were able to count on the substantive and friendly help of the staff of the Italian NGO CESVI (Përmet). Our special thanks go to Giorgio Ponti and his staff members: Julian Elezi, Ardian Gogo, Fiorent Jace, Jonid Jace, Aleks Tane and Elidjon Thanasi.

In Përmet, we were also able to count on the cooperation and generous hospitality of Sotir Nauni, the last primary school teacher in the village of Bënjë. It was a privilege to meet him and talk to him about life in the village.

Our sincere thanks also go to those who kindly and generously provided us with ideas, information, documentation and suggestions. It is difficult to list everyone who has contributed to making this book more informative, but we would particularly like to thank Daniel Pirushi, Berijan Premto and Aleks Todhe.

We would also like to thank Rebecca Milner, who translated the manuscript into English, for her patience and valuable advice and suggestions.

Finally, we would like to express our great appreciation to Eranda and Sania Shpata, the owners of the Familjari Restaurant in Përmet, where we so often found a cosy and hospitable refuge after a hard day's work.
