

Acknowledgements

I would like to thank the following people and institutions for their assistance including as key informants and providers of data as well as for offering comments on drafts of the manuscript. I note that the people mentioned may not share my views and, of course, I take full responsibility for the views expressed in this work.

In 2017 whilst undertaking this research I was most fortunate to be a scholar in residence at the Anglican Centre in Rome. For this fellowship I am most grateful to, the then director of the centre, the Most Rev'd. Sir David Moxon who, with his wife Lady Tureiti Moxon, encouraged me to seek the truth in this politically fraught undertaking. This fellowship enabled me to meet and interact with a number of key informants in relation to the research undertaken in this study. I am particularly grateful to Ms. Teresa Kettlecamp, then Commissioner with the Pontifical Commission for the Protection of Minors (former Illinois state police colonel and director of the US Bishop's Child Protection Office), for her insights. I also thank the Domus Internationalis for their hospitality while I was in Rome. My visit there was invaluable as I witnessed the workings of clerical residential homes. On a subsequent visit to Rome, I was fortunate to meet with HE Melissa Hitchman, then Australian Ambassador to the Holy See. Ms Hitchman sent my work to the Australian Government to assist them in their response to the Australian Royal Commission. Furthermore, I thank Fr. Prof. Hans Zollner SJ, Director of the Institute of Anthropology at the Pontifical Gregorian University, for his communications.

I would also like to thank the principal investigators on the John Jay Inquiry, Prof. Karen Terry and Ms. Margaret Smith, who met with me in New York to discuss their seminal work on child sexual abuse in the Catholic Church in the USA. Prof. John Kleinig arranged this meeting, sent me relevant material, and provided very much appreciated hospitality during this visit. Furthermore, I am grateful to many other scholars and journalists who provided useful information and advice to me, notably Dr. Colin Jory who sent me many helpful articles and Dr. Chris S. Friel whose tireless work on the case of Cardinal George Pell was particularly instructive. I was also most fortunate to meet with Mr. Gerard Henderson to discuss his book, Cardinal Pell, The Media Pile-on and Collective Guilt and the late Cardinal George Pell himself. I would like to thank Dr. Michael Cooney for meeting with me. Michael was ex-Prime Minister Julia Gillard's speechwriter at the time she called the Australian Royal Commission. I am grateful to the Centre for Public and Contextual Theology, Charles Sturt University, Australia, for funding this research. In particular I would like to thank, former Executive Director of the centre, the Rt. Rev'd. Prof. Stephen Pickard, for commissioning this research, the Rev'd. Canon Prof. Scott Cowdell for offering much needed advice, and my colleagues at Charles Sturt University for providing me with assistance of various kinds. Special thanks go to Rev'd Emeritus Professor James Haire and Emeritus Professor Ross Chambers.

I would like to thank the Rev'd. Dr. Christine Sorensen who invited me to give a presentation on my work at the United Theological College in Sydney, and Mr. John Cox for sharing with me his insider knowledge of the Australian Royal Commission and the Uniting Church's response to it. John is the Director of National Safe Church Unit and the person who is in charge of the Uniting Church's response to the Royal Commission. I thank Mr. Peter Hade (ex-Manager of Australian Catholic Redress Ltd.) for meeting with me to discuss the Catholic Church's involvement in the Australian redress scheme and Fr. Dr. Stephen Hackett (ex-General Secretary of the Australian Catholic Bishops Conference (ACBC)) for agreeing to speak with me. I am also grateful for my conversation with Rev'd. Dr. Tony Percy (then Vicar General of the Catholic Archdiocese of Canberra and Goulburn). I am thankful for Fr. Pádraig McCarthy's communications and was pleased to meet Fr. Brian Lucas. On the occasion of our meeting Fr. Lucas showed me a report he wrote for the ACBC, that I mention in this book. I was surprised to see how weighty the report is. Thanks also to Br. Anthony Shanahan for his comments and to Rev. Joseph Lee SDB for his letter. Dr. Andrew Gibbs (clinical neuropsychologist) provided me with useful information.

I am grateful to have had the opportunity to spend time at St Cross College at the University of Oxford (as a recipient of the Crawford-Miller fellowship working on biblical studies). The fellowship was serendipitous in that it enabled me to discuss my work on child sexual abuse with numerous scholars at Oxford University. I was also fortunate enough to be able to work in the comfortable surroundings of the Pusey House Library. For this, I am grateful to the Principal of Pusey House, the Rev'd. Dr. George Westhaver. I would also like to thank the Very Rev'd. Prof. Martyn Percy (former Dean of Christ Church, Oxford) who gave me advice regarding the book proposal, Prof. Nigel Biggar (Regius Prof. of Moral and Pastoral Theology, Christ Church Oxford) who met with me and encouraged me to proceed with my work, and the Rev'd. Prof. Mark Chapman for meeting with me to discuss the Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse (IICSA). I would like to thank the Rt. Rev'd. Peter Hancock (then, Lead Bishop for Safeguarding in the Church of England) Ms Meg Munn (Chair of the National Safeguarding Panel in the Church of England), Rev'd. Dr. Canon Christopher Thomas (General Secretary of the Catholic Bishops Conference England and UK) and Baroness Nuala O'Loan (Chair of the Catholic Council for the Independent Inquiry into Child Sexual Abuse) for speaking with me about IICSA.

I am especially grateful for the encouragement, support and advice of my husband, Prof. Seumas Miller (Charles Sturt University and the University of Oxford) who has extensive experience analysing complaints data utilized by commissions of inquiry, e.g. the Royal Commission into the New South Wales Police Service (Wood Royal Commission).

I would like to thank Prof. Carlos Schickendantz (Alberto Hurtado University, Chile) for his feedback on the article, Speaking the Truth in Love (Eph. 4:15): An Analysis of the Findings of the Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse, which he cited in his article, Estándares contemporáneos de buena gobernanza. Factores sistémicos en la crisis de los abusos en la Iglesia Católica (Contemporary Standards of Good Governance. Systemic Factors in the Crisis of Abuse in the Catholic Church). I also thank Mr Richie Scutt (Richie Scutt Survivor and Friend's Foundation) for his feedback on the article and Dr William Donohue (President of the Catholic League, USA) for his feedback and encouragement. I would like to thank Rev'd Dr Patrick Goujon SJ for giving me his book Precarious: A Survivor of Clerical Abuse Remembers, at Campion Hall, Oxford. I read his book with interest. I would also like to thank Rev'd Dr. Partick Riordan for his feedback on the first edition of the book. Furthermore, I am most grateful for the feedback from Archbishop Anthony Fisher, Cardinal Giovanni Battista Re and Cardinal Mario Grech. I am also thankful for Prof. Rosalie Burnett's review of the first edition of this book in the journal Ecclesiology. I am grateful to Rev'd Dr. Paul Avis for requesting and publishing the review. Similarly, I am grateful for Prof. Damian Grace's review of the first edition of the book in the Journal of the Australian Catholic Historical Society. I thank Prof. James Franklin for organising the review. Furthermore, I am grateful to Firenze University Press for publishing this work. In particular, I would like to thank Prof. Fulvio Guatelli (Executive Director).

Material in this book that has been previously published is as follows. Chapter Four, in part, has been published in the Italian Insider; ABC Religion and Ethics; Life in Abundance; and St Mark's Review. Interviews for the book can be found on the ACBC Media Blog Podcast - Episode #1 Child Sexual Abuse Inquiries w/ Dr Virginia Miller (spotify.com) and the New Books Network. Respectively I thank Mr. Gavin Abraham and Mr. Bede Haines for organising the interviews.
